PROM 2007

By Erin Cunningham

Leaving school early, rushing to hair and make-up appointments, and taking pictures for what seemed like hours made up the day of prom preparations, Carissa Clark described. Prom 2007 occurred on June 8, 2007 and was held at the Westin Hotel in Morristown, New Jersey. The theme "Around the World" was evident throughout the entire room, with cultural references to a variety of countries.

Amy Gardner, a senior and second year prom-goer, explains that prom had, "better food, more elaborate decorations, and beautiful centerpieces" than past proms. The elegant prom scene created a magical night. However, without the endless hours of the hard work, dedication, and commitment of the prom committee, prom would not have been as successful or complete as it had come to be. Kylie Karp, a member of prom committee, described her experience of being on the committee as simply "fun".

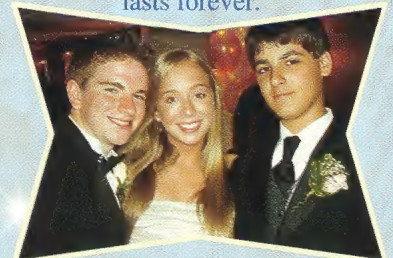

Together with the intricate planning of the prom committee as well as the neatness and togetherness of each student, prom night turned out as expected - an amazing night to remember.

INTERCLASS GAMES

By Nicolette Stauhs

Interclass Games is a time when each class bonds together to decorate the gym and show how much school spirit they have for their grade. This event always takes place on a Friday to conclude Spirit Week. During Interclass Games each grade competes against one another in different activities. These activities included volleyball, tug of war, egg toss, pie eating contest, and a three point shooting contest.

Before the games took place, each grade decorated their section of the gym with posters, banners, streamers, and balloons. You name the decoration; it was there! Senior Erin Cunningham excitedly stated, "I've never seen the gym with this many decorations in the four years that I've been here! It's nice to see everyone showing their school spirit!"

This year the senior boys and junior girls won the tug of war contests, while the seniors dominated in the volleyball game against the juniors. Knowing that this was her last volleyball game, Carrie Ann Bertschy was thrilled that the crowd was cheering her on. "Everyone definitely showed their school spirit and made the most noise during the volleyball game!"

If you want to see Jonathan Dayton at its height of school spirit, then be sure to attend the Interclass Games!

PEP RALLY

By Nicolette Stauhs

September begins a new year of fall sports. It brings excitement to the athletes, as well as the fans. The pep rally gives students a chance to express their excitement and support for their teams. It is the time when all varsity players are announced and recognized. It is also, as senior Kylie Karp says, "An opportunity to bring the school together and honor each season's sports. It's like a school bonding hour. I love it!"

The pep rally gives each grade a chance to participate and show school spirit by decorating their assigned sections in the gym. This year, every grade filled their spaces with tons of decorations. When asked which grade, other than his own, had the most school spirit, senior Adam Frank responded, "The juniors for making the big '09 out of balloons."

The overall atmosphere in the gym this year was overwhelming. Many students agreed that the most exciting time was when the football team was called down. Kylie Karp thought "it was extremely high in spirit and, as usual, the seniors dominated the crowd."

Spirit Week

By Melissa Bace

Showing school spirit is a time for everyone to get together and show some Bulldawg pride. It's a time where everyone forgets about their cliques of friends and the differences they have for just a moment and join together to cheer on the school. A school would be nothing without its dignity, and a school can only get that from the satisfaction the students have from it showing some love.

With Jonathan Dayton, it's fun to get involved with activities like College Day, Tie-dye Day, Decade Day, or just wearing everyone's favorite class color. "I love it when we get to wear our class colors; its great to see all the seniors take pride!" commented senior Dana Hauffe.

School Spirit is something that will never die in this school. With each new year brings more and more students who take pride in Dayton.

LUNCH TIME!

Homecoming

By Kylie Karp

A little rain may be enough to put a football game on hold, but nothing could stop dancing feet when it was time for the 2007 Homecoming Dance. Homecoming is one of the most anticipated events of the school year and everyone was ready for a night of dancing. Hours were spent getting dolled up and picking out the perfect outfit for the night. "It took me two weeks to learn how to tie my bow tie! My arm hurts from practicing so much. But I had to look incredible for the ladies," claimed senior Justin Russikoff.

Even before entering the main gym, the excitement was palpable as the most recent hit songs blasted through the speakers. A great night was in store for all, even the freshmen who were new to this Homecoming tradition. As the freshmen excitedly step foot into their first high school dance, the seniors sentimentally soaked up everything for the last time. "I was obviously really excited, but it was depressing at the same time because it's my last homecoming dance!" cried graduating senior Erin Cunningham.

Once the night was finally underway, smiles were on everyone's faces as they danced and laughed with friends. And for all of those who were dancing-impaired, there was a snack bar that gave anyone the perfect excuse to sit off to the side.

After hours of dancing, plus a special performance by one of Dayton's very own bands, The Clovis People, the most anxiously awaited part of the night had come: superlatives and homecoming king and queen results. Everyone gathered around the small stage listening carefully for the winners of Senior Superlatives. Soon came the anticipated results for Homecoming Princes and Princesses, as well as King and Queen. At last they were announced: Freshmen Prince and Princess Matt Neubauer and Rebecca Frank, Sophomore Prince and Princess Guiseppe Paternostro and Mai-Linh Nguyen, Junior Prince and Princess Umar Tamarov and Kim Alonso, and last but certainly not least, the Senior King and Queen Mario Grant and Amy Gardner. It was a night to be remembered by all.

Express Yourself

By Jennifer Seale

The students at Dayton all have different opinions on how they choose to express themselves and what they consider fun. Whether playing music, taking pictures, hanging out with friends, or just joking around, everyone has their own unique style, something that makes them stand out. Junior Karyn Rothspan says, "I like to make myself known as a jokester and someone who cares, so I do really crazy stuff, especially to cheer up my friends."

While Karyn likes to express her outgoing, vocal side, senior Ashley Gomes, who also has an outgoing side, likes to express herself through photographs. Gomes states, "I like just like chilling out and photographing things everyone else thinks is obscure. It is pretty cool opening everyone's eyes to something they never thought was beautiful and making it so."

No one has all the same interests. If they did this world will be really boring.

$ $ Jobs $ $

Jobs are a very important part of Jonathan Dayton High School. Many of the students here have jobs for various reasons. Some need to earn money for college, car payments, gas money, car insurance, etc. However, while some save, others spend.

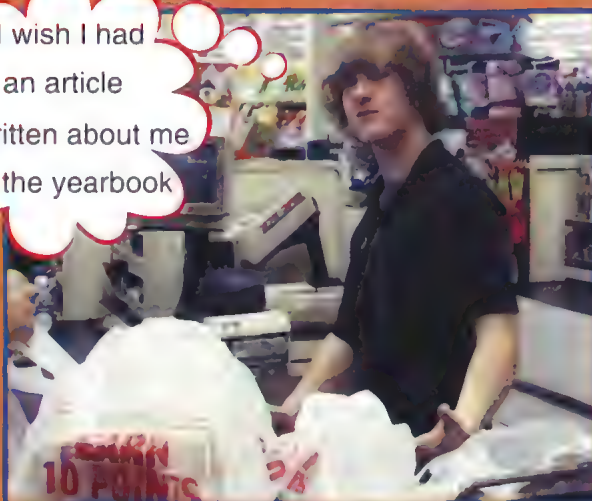

Senior Matt Butler is a cashier at The Super Foodtown in our very own Township of Springfield. The job, according to Butler, Teaches me responsibility and gives me something to do. At JDHS a lot of people come across a job they like in the classifieds. Matt, on the other hand, was more determined. He walked right into Foodtown with a serious look on his face. He asked for an application, he filled it out, and before he could say Did I get the job? he got the job. I'm saving for my financial future and for a new sound system in my car, claims Butler.

Our local economy is fueled by these high school jobs. Teens get money and then feed it right back into places like Foodtown and even our school cafeteria. These jobs are very important and without them, our community of Springfield could fall deep into an economic depression. Well, maybe the jobs aren't that important, but they are great if a youngster wants to earn a few extra bucks.

Cars

By: Justin Russikoff

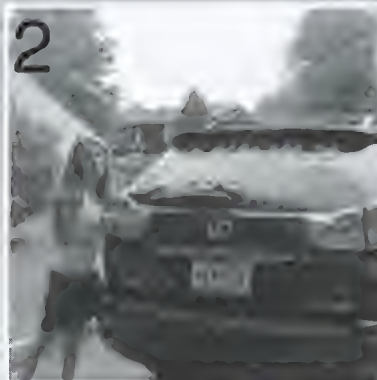

Cars, automobiles, vehicles, whatever you want to call them, they are a valuable part of every teenager's life. Here at Jonathan Dayton, students can be seen cruising around in their "whips" before and after school.

In addition to driving to and from school, some students look forward to long drives where they can bond with their cars. Even after taking long road trips, Yearbook Editor Lucas Biebleberg said, "Me, my car, and the open road for one and a half hours, I felt as though we bonded."

Senior Chris Hillyer sports a 1996 Gunmetal Grey Buick Century which he saved up for and bought at Big C Motors in Linden. Like Lil' Wayne said, "Ridin' by myself/ well really, not really/ So heavy in the trunk make the car pop-a-wheelie." A lot of students try to "trick out" their cars by installing custom sound systems such as having huge subwoofers in the trunk. Chris has installed a Kenwood surround sound system and he says, "I love it".

If cars run on gas, then it can be said that Dayton runs on cars. Whether it's cruising around town from school to home, or just getting a fourth meal with the buds, cars are a serious addition to the student drivers of JDHS.

Hangouts

By Chris Hillyer

Hanging out around Springfield can become monotonous, so those of us looking for fun sometimes have to venture out of our native borders searching for a good time on our own. Places in neighboring towns like the AMC Movie Theatre in Mountainside and the Mall at Short Hills have become hotspots for Springfielders to be caught having a good time.

According to Justin Russikoff, "Springfield itself doesn't have much to offer other than pizza and Starbucks in Barnes and Noble. But with a little exploration it is easy to find people you know in random places around town."

However, the small town of Springfield does have its perks. Dayton students can easily stop into Libby's Pharmacy to pick up a scoop of ice cream or their allergy prescription or grab something to eat at the many restaurants on Route 22.

"Driving home after school you see youngsters joking around with each other and just having a good old time," says Steve Hillyer fondly looking back on his childhood days spent hanging out on the playground at F.M.G. with his friends.

Whether we choose to hang out around town or choose to venture elsewhere, Springfielders still know how to have a good time and keep themselves occupied.

Administration

Dear Members of the Jonathan Dayton School Community, most especially the members of the Class of 2008,

As I look back upon the year, I reflect upon the great changes we have witnessed in the national and international arena, and the many changes we have experienced even within our school. While change inevitably occurs around us, we can gain strength and stability from our ideals and when we are guided by our integrity, we cannot help but succeed.

Each school year is a part of the journey, and the Class of 2008 has concluded their part of the journey that is Jonathan Dayton High School. Your teachers and I hope that we have nurtured your independence, self-reliance and perseverance to carry you through the many changes in your life. We know you will build upon the foundation you have begun in Springfield and continue to strive for success. You have built so many strong relationships with friends and faculty alike so I know that you will continue to be part of JDHS in the years to come.

Best wishes for continued success,
Elizabeth Cresci

Mrs. Elizabeth Cresci
Principal

Dayton Welcomes it's New Vice Pricipal, Mr. Norman Francis!

Dear Students,

As you reflect on the 2007- 2008 school term, recalling challenges and success, good times and sad times, I hope you conclude that your time at JDHS has been time well spent. I want to congratulate you on your impressive achievements in both academic and extracurricular pursuits. I also want to thank you for striving to be responsible and upstanding individuals.

Now, it is time to take the many lesson you have learned and apply them to the next level. Underclassmen, I look forward to continuing to assist you with your growth and development next year. Seniors, I bid you farewell and hope you will find success and fulfillment in you future endeavors. Have a fun and safe summer break!

Sincerely,
Mr. Francis

Featured New Teacher By Lucas Biebelberg

After only one year at Dayton, Mr. Tabachnick has already made an impact. After teaching at Point Pleasant High School, Mr. Tabachnick arrived this year with aspirations of molding young minds. The new Physics and AP Physics teacher is only twenty-five years old, yet has very impressive credentials.

After graduating Westfield Senior High School where he played ice hockey, Mr. T. attended Wesleyan University followed by Columbia Grad School for teaching. At Wesleyan, he double-majored in Physics and Astronomy while on his path to becoming a teacher.

Now, one of Dayton's most student-friendly teachers, Mr. Tabachnick is able to make his classes some of the most enjoyable in the school. From projects ranging from bridge building to timing the speed of cars, he is always able to keep his students engaged.

Arriving at 6:50 a.m. every morning, he is dedicated to preparing the upcoming lessons for his students. To go along with that, Mr. T constantly makes himself available before and after school everyday when needed.

While he has only been here for a short period of time, many students already love him. Hopefully Mr. Tabachnick will remain at Dayton for years to come and continue to make classes, such as Physics, enjoyable for kids.

National Honor Society

By Erin Cunningham

On Tuesday, November 13, 2007, many accomplished juniors and seniors reached an important stepping stone in their academic lives. The National Honor Society induction brought together all of those well-rounded individuals who contribute not only high grades to Jonathan Dayton High School, but leadership positions, community outreach, and a mature, developed sense of character as well. After receiving such an honor, these students volunteer within their school community by tutoring students at both the middle and high school levels. The executive board includes President Kenny Glennon, Vice President Margot Kotler, Secretary Eliav Levy, and Historian Charline Tetiyevsky.

National Art Honor Society

By Erin Cunningham

The talented artists of Jonathan Dayton High School take one afternoon out of their week to spend extra time working on their art projects to build their portfolios. Together, these driven students form National Art Honor Society. Meeting weekly, artists from all grades gather to complete already started projects or begin new ones. Not only is their focus on their own projects, but they have spent a large amount of time painting around our very own school, as well as voluntarily creating murals in the community. Their efforts are endless, and their talents are incomparable. National Art Honor Society is composed of a variety of unique students from grades nine through twelve.

Math League

By Justin Russikoff

Math League could be considered one of the most challenging clubs to be found at Jonathan Dayton. Math League competitions consist of having to correctly answer six very tough math questions, ranging from algebra to calculus, that the great brains of JDHS are usually successful in answering. This club doesn't necessarily have a sign-up, students just need to show up at the IMC on the assigned day in which the test is given and then just wait for the next morning's T.V. announcements to hear the results.

Senior Eliav Levy said, "My favorite types of questions are the ones that have the current year as the answer." Sometimes Ms. Powers and Mr. White try to pull a fast one on us kids, but some bright minds like Eliav pick up on their tricks.

Having the Math League here at Dayton keeps the students competitive while challenging their minds.

Science League

By Justin Russikoff

If anyone is thinking about a scholastic competition, joining the Science League could be one of the toughest, but greatest out there. Advised by Mr. Gula, this club could be one of Dayton's most competitive.

In Science League, each student has to take a test that ranges from 25 to 80 questions long. Physics, Chemistry, and Biology are the three categories that are tested. Joe Buonomo, a junior in the Advanced Placement Chemistry class, loves the chemistry test "... Because [he's] taken two years of it and because [he's] a complete science geek," Joe claims with pride.

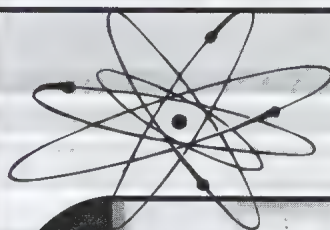

The competition is very difficult, but competitors are rewarded at the end with free juice and sandwiches. All in all it is a great club, great contest and brings the true brains out of the contestants.

Right: Senior Student Council Members Kylie Karo and Erin Cunningham represent the senior class.

Student Council is a pivotal part of Jonathan Dayton High School. Without this council there would be very few school events for Dayton students to partake in. Student Council consists of four class governments (grades 9-12) which oversee class events and one school government which oversees entire school events. One of the most important events the Junior Class Council has to organize is prom.

Student council meetings are held periodically throughout the year to discuss school events including Snowball, The Blood Drive, King of Hearts and many other school-related events and fund raisers. "King of Hearts is great fun to plan because it is awesome to be behind the scenes," says Senior treasurer Erin Cunningham. (Be sure to check out the King of Hearts on page 124.)

If it weren't for Student Council, and more specifically Advisor Mrs. Cokeing, Dayton would not run so smoothly.

VOLUNTEER CLUB

By Kylie Karp

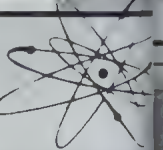

The Jonathan Dayton High School Volunteer Club has proven to be one of the most popular clubs for the 2007-2008 school year, and rightfully so. The most noted quality about each member of the Volunteer Club is that they are genuinely willing to put others before themselves. From hosting different events, to visiting children's specialized hospitals, the volunteer club members do what ever it takes to help others and put smiles on people's faces. "My favorite event is definitely the Senior Citizens breakfast," says senior Nikki Stauhs. "It makes my day when I see how happy they are after we serve them breakfast. It's so simple, yet so affective."

Led by Co-Presidents Caitlin Wade, Kylie Karp, and Matt Osit, and Advisors Miss Horowitz and Mr. White, the Volunteer Club has been very successful in all of their endeavors this year and will continue to be one of the most respected clubs in the school.

MEDICAL CAREERS

By Amanda Majewski

Time flies here at Dayton. Before you know it you'll be graduating and facing a world with thousands of job opportunities. Medical Careers Club provides students with a desire to pursue a medical career with the opportunity to go behind the scenes of numerous health careers. From getting up close to a cadaver to shadowing doctors in the field, there is no limit to the experiences Advisor Mrs. Ornovitz and her executive board have been able to provide club members. Apart from the exclusive field trips, club members also find ways to give back, such as donating to hospitals and raising money for research foundations.

"This year's Amnesty International organization is much different from last," claims Liat Zabludovsky. "There is so much more activity! We've already accomplished a few fundraisers and have raised a great deal of money for various causes."

President Carissa Clark and Vice President Liat Zabludovsky claim the club gets together once every two weeks in Advisor Mrs. Trueger's room working on organizing a variety of fundraisers and events to raise social awareness about global issues. Liat created "PEACE" t-shirts that raised money for malaria vaccines. In December she promoted these "PEACE" t-shirts on the TV announcement slide show with a catchy logo stating: $12 = 1 tee shirt = 1 malaria vaccine.

"We are really enthusiastic and involved," states senior Nate Sobel, an active member of this club as well as many others at Dayton.

Mock Trial

By Jeanine Costa

This year the murder trial taking place in the Mock Trial room is filled with drama and research. Mock Trial is composed of twelve students, Advisor Mrs. Trueger, and a local lawyer. The students vary from freshmen to seniors.

The tension in the room added to straining conditions and questions that brought terror to the accused. Sophomore Matt Rottenberg, playing the role of father of a nationally ranked swimmer, was accused of giving his son performance enhancing drugs which lead to his son's death. Senior Seth Benzell, playing the father's attorney, pursues the fact that the son may have been on drugs without the father's knowledge.

The trial was not only intense, but the students role playing were extremely convincing helping Dayton's Mock Trial to make it all the way to the Union County Finals. Interested in playing a role or have a desire to enter the legal field, then this is the club for you.

Model United Nations

By Chris Hillyer

Model UN enjoys fun trips to all the best colleges like Harvard, Yale and Johns Hopkins throughout the year. Although we hear about this club and see the pictures on the television screens during the day many of us have little or no clue what this club actually does.

Through strenuous research and many late nights by the computer, I've discovered that on the many weekend trips the club debates important current events like social politics. At the international meetings each school has the chance to represent a different country and argue the political points of views.

Senior Terese Alfano, a 4 year member, describes her favorite part of the club as, "meeting people from around the world and getting to know them." While on the other hand Taryn Fromer enjoys being able to eat Snickers every meal while on the sleepover trips.

JSA

By Chris Hillyer

The Junior Statesmen of America has been a club at Dayton for many years, although now its ranks are being filled with more and more underclassmen which brings a breath of fresh air to the club. The heated debates can be heard around the top floor on brisk Thursday mornings. Walking into the room of Advisor Mrs. Cokeing, one gets the feeling of being immersed in intellectual conversation based on today's hot topics.

The debates rage on through the year and the club often enjoys trips to places like Boston and exciting New Hampshire to argue topics with people from around the country. Many people enjoy this aspect of the club because it allows them to take a side and then find facts and use persuasion to argue that point.

"The student involvement in this club is key. The way the debates are set up are to create an environment where the members can feel free to express their opinions," said Senior President Andrew Agranovich.

TV Studio

By Chris Hillyer

TV class is all about having a good time and serious work, but most seniors enjoy the privilege of being on the morning announcements or getting to help film it. Senior Matt Butler recalls some of his favorite moments in the TV studio: happy memories of Jaclyn Ricci being reprimanded constantly and all the good times behind the scenes.

Senior Steve Hillyer says that, "TV is good because its a lot more fun than hanging out in the U.B.U. Lounge at 7:40 in the morning." He explains that his favorite job to do during the announcements is in the control room, because he likes to call the shots and it's a lot easier.

Although the Senior class is the last to have experienced Mr. A. and his quirky humor, Mr. Coward has been a respectable replacement and has brought his own flavor to the classroom. With hilarious nicknames like "Larry Literal, Chatty Cathy and Negative Nelly" he spices up class time with hands on learning and productions.

QUIZ BOWL

Although the clubs at Jonathan Dayton High School are endless, some stand out as the most well-known and prestigious. One of those clubs, Quiz Bowl, has been successful for many years. They're about fifteen members in Quiz Bowl, and they meet once a week on Monday's to "practice questions that will be asked in competitions," stated Sophomore Aakash Patel.

One of the more student-friendly members of the club, Seth Benzell, has been a member for few years now and helps a great deal to make this team one that's difficult to beat. The club is composed of incredibly intelligent students who thrive on learning and take advantage of each and every opportunity they get to gain knowledge.

Quiz Bowl club has been around for many years, but it seems to change each year. "The club is different this year than in previous years because we seem to be composed of a much younger group, and we have a different approach on each competition," claimed Aakash Patel.

While the Quiz Bowl competition is the club's main focus, members get together to share a few laughs while preparing. All work and no play doesn't accomplish much, so the Quiz Bowl club has found a way to integrate both. Although knowledge is an integral part of the club, having fun is just as important.

Dawg Print

By Benjamin
Zweiman

The Dawg Print, Jonathan Dayton's prestigious newspaper, was off to yet another anticipated year. JDHS's publication has been through a lot in the past couple of school years with budget problems as well as censorship issues, but all and all the staff has done a great job at producing a thought-provoking, yet interesting read for the students of.

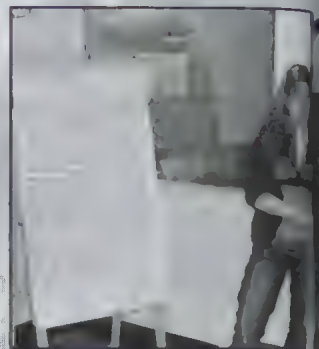

Led by Senior Editor-in-Chief Charline Tetiyevsky, the newspaper staff has a tremendous amount of experience. Charline feels, "The Dawg Print has really shaped up in the past few years. We've become more professional, both quality and appearance-wise, and I don't think that this will change just because some editors are graduating. The section editors and I are working on training staff members to become acquainted with Quark and the way things are run, and I think that the high standards that we have set over the past couple of years will inspire future Dawg Print staffs and editors to continue to grow and improve."

The only additions to the staff are seniors Carly Wolkoff, as News Editor, Benjamin Zweiman, as Sports Editor, and sophomore Evan Levy as Pop Culture Editor.

Other than that, not much has changed in the format of the newspaper itself. Many of the old features such as "Student and Teachers of the Month", as well as the "Artist Spotlight" are still represented in the publication. Ms. Rooney-Kuhn still supervises the students in keeping the newspaper politically correct and free of plagiarism.

Recently, the newspaper has been scrutinized regarding views expressed about the new period implemented for the 07-08 school year. Nonetheless, the Dawg Print's goal was to serve as a voice for the students and will continue to do so. Hopefully in the long run, the newspaper can keep putting out successful issues with compelling stories that reflect the writers' hard work as well as Jonathan Dayton's student body.

Literary Magazine

By Benjamin Zweiman

The literary magazine is starting yet another exciting year filled with various creative works from the students at Jonathan Dayton. Displaying art, poetry, short stories, and essays from both students, the Lit Mag has been around since the 1960's and is running strong and hoping to keep producing very inspiring works. Melopoeia, the name of the Lit Mag, means the art of forming melody used primarily for a melodic passage. Senior Charline Tetiyevsky, who has been working on it since she set foot in Jonathan Dayton, manages and edits the Lit Mag and was able to get it to steer it in the right direction. With the absence of Mr. Shallcross, who used to supervise the Lit Mag, Ms. Rooney-Kuhn has kindly stepped up to the plate to ensure the production of a successful and thought-provoking student publication.

R.E.B.E.L.

Above: President Ashley Gomes, Senior Aaron Wentham, Vice President Jeanine Costa

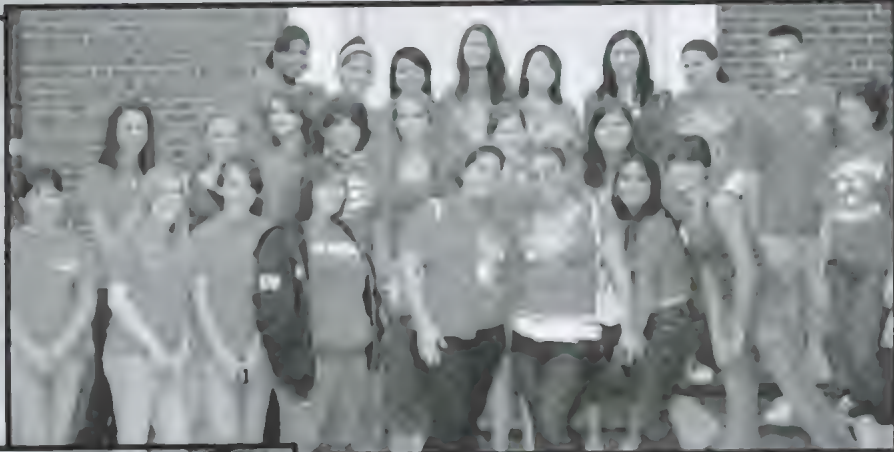

REBEL stands for Reaching Everyone By Exposing Lies. This is a group of students that work throughout the year to teach kids about the dangers of tobacco and second hand smoke. President Ashley Gomes and Vice President Jeanine Costa really enjoy teaching other kids about the dangers and problems that come with smoking. They work with REBEL Advisor Mrs. Sista to really make an impact on other students. The club puts a lot of time into Red Ribbon Week, a special week dedicated to teaching others about smoking. Vice President Jeanine Costa says, "I really enjoy helping other students and it is a lot fun at the same time."

Alternatives Club

By Roxanne Tourkay

When you walk through the halls of Jonathan Dayton, you might see the work of a few students who don't fold under peer pressure, who march to the beat of a different drum. At lunch you might see them handing out bracelets or ringing bells to alert the students of the dangers of drugs and alcohol. The Alternatives Club members work everyday to promote alternative ways to having fun without using alcohol, cigarettes and drugs.

Mrs. Sista and her group of fun loving drug free students work to better the school one student at a time. "If we reach out to one student and help them make the right choices, then we are successful," says Mrs. Sista, Advisor.

This year the Alternatives Club made an immense difference at Jonathan Dayton. "It's Important to educate the people and make them aware of the dangers of drugs and alcohol to make healthy decisions." So Dayton Dawgs, go out, be a leader, and have some drug-free fun.

Italian Club

By Roxanne Tourney

The 2008 Italian Club has been bigger and better than ever this year. Led by Advisor Mr. Fabiano, the Italian Club has grown by leaps and bounds, with the largest membership its had in years. It seems as even the freshmen, who usually wait a few years, are getting more involved in clubs. "When I was a freshman, I wasn't even a part of the club, but now that we are seniors we make sure everyone has a voice," says Caitlin Wade, the Italian Club Public Relations Representative.

With two sophomores, one junior, and three seniors as officers the Dayton voice is truly being heard.

With the annual trip to the Mozzarella Factory followed by a great Italian feast, in addition to many other cultural gatherings the Italian Club ended the year with a bang.

French Club

By Nicolette Stauhs

If you're looking to learn about French culture, art, and cuisine, then follow the footsteps of Jonathan Dayton's French Club. Advised by Madame Moscovitz, students get together to further explore the culture. This year's officers are Erica Spada as President, Kylie Karp and Melanie Wang as Vice Presidents, Amy Gardner as Treasurer, and Erin Cunningham as Secretary.

This year club members attended trips to museums for special French exhibitions and dined at some of the finest French restaurants. Four year member, Kylie Karp claims "Madame Moscovitz never fails to plan great trips. We always look forward to them."

Students in French club were eager and for a great year and will leave this year better educated and experienced in French culture.

Pep Band

By Melissa Bace

Pep Band is the heart and soul of the pep rallies. These guys really know how to get the crowd going and screaming with bulldog pride. The students in Pep Band each play their hearts out not only at pep rallies, but at football games as well.

At football games, their goal is to get the crowd jumping and the team enthusiastic with their remarkable fight songs. Led by Mr. Slate, the members endure hours of practice to perfect their songs; they settle for nothing less than perfection. Junior Kevin Handeli claims that "Pep Band gives great opportunities to those who love music."

Spanish Club

By Melissa Bace

This year the Spanish Club has doubled with more and more students becoming interested in learning more about the culture. At meetings, dedicated students can get together and enjoy the Spanish culture by listening to guest speakers, view and examine culture artifacts, listen to Spanish music and even by attending Spanish plays. The club is for serious students who are taking Spanish and wish to continue learning. The Spanish Club is fun and active with hardly ever a dull moment. This is a great way to learn about the Spanish culture, have fun and even make some friends.

Key Club

By Ashley Gomes

Jonathan Dayton High School's clubs are what really get the student body involved, whether it be Volunteer Club, Alternatives Club, REBEL, or in this case, Key Club. After the past Key Club Executive Board members graduated, current President Carissa Clark, Secretary Matt Osit and Treasurer Ashley Gomes have been keeping it solid with trying to be original with events and fundraising for The Smile Train, The March Of Dimes, as well as this year's campaign of gathering school supplies for children in Swaziland.

One of the most difficult aspects of being so involved in a club like this is putting everything one has into it, especially if that person has been with it since the beginning. But the seniors are ready to pass down all they know to the eager underclassmen. The club consists of a great group of kids, freshmen and sophomores, who are going to take over once current seniors graduate.

The graduating Class of 2008 had this s and the community a great service from holiday food deliveries to the less fortunate going to the Milburn Day School every around Christmas time just to make handicapped children smile.

Under the guidance and leadership of Mr. Tedesco, the Key Club will be just as successful as in years prior.

Peer Leadership

By Kylie Karp

The Peer Leaders at JDHS are known to be the students in school that anyone can look to for help or advice. They are always there, whether it is just for a quick hello or if someone is having a bad day and needs to talk it out. However, becoming a peer leader is not as easy as it may seem. Oh, no. There is a rigorous application process that each applicant must undergo, followed by multiple training sessions for the admitted handful of juniors and seniors. From there, each member must continuously prove throughout the year that they are Dayton's perfect role models. "I feel very proud to be a part of peer leadership because it's such an honorable organization that is out there for students just like me," states Co-President Amy Gardner.

Peer Leaders have done an excellent job running different peer leadership events this year such as to incoming freshmen, holding a "fresh fun night," and taking trips to the middle school to educate them about dangers of peer pressure. "We educate [middle schoolers] on alcohol, marijuana so they learn the harm it does to the body," Amy explained. "This way they will be educated as they enter high school and the rest of their life." Being a part of this program is a true privilege.

Chess Club

By Matt Butler

Although small in numbers, the Chess Club is perhaps one of the smartest around. For those who don't know, the Chess Club is back again this year. Meeting once a week, normally on Thursdays, the "Chessletes" play against one another for basic strategy work, amongst other things. Senior Member Chris Hillyer raves about the club saying, "It's more fun than people might think, and the best part is anyone can join even if you don't know how to play." Most importantly for all of those who might be thinking, "Hey, maybe I want to be a Chess Club member next year," the club advisor is Mr. Russo, who "is a beast!" exclaims Chris Hillyer. Furthermore the Chess Club is here to stay, so all of you get out and join!

Ski Club

By Matt Shanes

Now in its fourth year, the Jonathan Dayton High School Ski & Snowboard Club was put to the test. With an entirely new executive board, many new members and plenty of snow, it looked positive for one of the most popular clubs at Dayton.

Advised by Ms. Bellarosa and Mr. Krupp, the JDHS Ski & Snowboard Club is the only club at Dayton that takes its members on Friday night and overnight trips to local mountains. With past trips to Shawnee, Camelback and Smugglers Notch, the trips are in high demand.

Aside from the fact that Ski Club gives new skiers/snowboarders the chance to learn and experienced skiers/snowboards the chance to improve, the club is about much more than just having fun on the mountain. What's great about Ski Club is that it brings all different types of students together. "Students that you normally would not see hanging out together have this great-shared experience on the slopes and I hope that they will later transcend this into everyday life," said Advisor Ms. Bellarosa.

Every year Ski Club draws out the adventurous spirit of students willing to explore a new sport. In the future I can definitely see a growth in members as more students become interested and as the overall popularity of the club rises, said Vice President Justin Lam. As students mature in high school, I believe that they want to participate in more clubs and try new things. Therefore I think that Ski Club will appeal to many students who are willing to try skiing or snowboarding for the first time.

Although the entire executive board will be graduating in the next two years, the Jonathan Dayton High School Ski & Snowboard Club will be going down hill fast for many years to come.

Choir

By Jennifer Seale

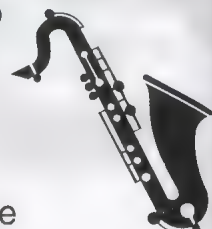

This year's Dayton Choir, directed by Miss Madison, consists of students ranging from grades 9 - 12. Some students are enrolled in the choir class while others, who are unable to fit Choir into their schedules, attend rehearsals on Tuesdays and Thursdays during our zero period. This often becomes a challenge because of all the other club meetings that take place during zero periods, but Miss Madison manages to make due with what she has.

Despite some obstacles, they worked hard to put together some amazing concerts. Although it is often challenging getting the entire group together, choir members show plenty of dedication. Senior Amanda Majewski, a member of the choir for many years claims the "best thing about choir is that [she] gets to show off in front of the underclassmen and show them how it's done."

The Dayton Band has always been a source of enjoyment, to not only those in the club, but to those who watch them perform as well. Similar to the choir, some students are enrolled in the class while others, who are unable to fit Band into their schedules, attend rehearsals on Mondays and Wednesdays during our zero period. This often becomes a challenge because of all the other club meetings that take place during zero periods, but Mr. Slate manages to throw together some great concerts with these dedicated students nonetheless.

Most of these members, like Dana Feldman, have been strengthening their skills since they were young. "I've been performing music for 6 years and have always found it enjoyable," says junior Dana Feldman. "It's something that I have always taken pride in."

Hopefully the Dayton Band will continue striving for greatness.

YEARBOOK

With the recent update in technology, the 2008 Yearbook has been taken to a new level. For the first time in the long history of JDHS, the yearbook is being designed fully through the magic of the Internet. So far the Yeartech program, which can be accessed from school and from home, has brought about mixed reviews; however, most seem to be in favor of it. One yearbook veteran, Ben Zweiman, claims, "The new program really works. It allows us to work at our convenience."

Also new to our system this year is the ability for anyone to upload their pictures directly to our site. This has allowed for a more diverse selection of people to appear in the yearbook which, when it comes down to it, is something we all look for in a book filled with memories.

Overall this year's staff, although small in number, is a dedicated crew with only perfection in mind. The thirteen in the class include: Editor-in-Chief Lucas Biebelberg, Editor-in-Chief Erin Cunningham, Photo Editors Roxanne Tourkay and Mathew Butler, Business Manager Melissa Bace, Senior Section Editors Kylie Karp and Nikki Stauhs, People Editor Jeanine Costa, Clubs and Events Editors Chris Hillyer and Jen Seale, Sports Editor Ben Zweiman, In the Spotlight Editor Amanda Majewski, Ads and Messages Editor Justin Russikoff. Others not enrolled in the class, such as Adam Frank, Katie Venezia, Matt Shanes, Ashley Gomes and others contributed to the greatness of this year's yearbook as well.

Senior Editor-in-Chief Lucas Biebelberg believes this yearbook will set a precedent for years to come. Plus, with Biebelberg at the helm, greatness is never far away. For now we, as students, are still learning about the possibilities the Yeartech program has to offer, but as we learn and the years go on, one can only imagine the promise for future yearbooks.

Dayton Volleyball had a very successful season this year. Led by captains Melanie Wang, Carrie Ann Bertschy, and Katie Venezia, the bulldawgs ended their final weeks together with five straight wins. With the loss of their head coach Heather Wells, the girls were very apprehensive as to how their season would turn out, but soon realized that nothing could stand in the way of them trying their hardest. Previous JV Coach Jessica Orr assumed the role as new varsity coach and determined to make it a good last season for the graduating seniors.

Despite many setbacks that arose throughout the season, the volleyball team never gave anything less than everything they had. Faced with a broken net system, the team held a carwash, as well as a school store in an attempt to relinquish the thousands of dollars needed to repair the broken equipment. "It didn't even come close to raising enough money to fix the net for next year, but anything to make it a little easier on them was enough for us," said senior Michelle Leokumovich. "This team unity is what held the squad together during rough times in the season, and is what will keep the team strong in years to come."

"Our goal wasn't to have a winning season, because we all know it's almost impossible to create that in just one year. Instead, we tried to build a strong bond, because without that there is no chance of winning season," said Coach Carrie Ann Bertschy.

This year's seniors can leave their team behind knowing that they have left an impression in hearts of their fellow teammates. Melanie Wang expressed wholeheartedly, "It's crazy to think that I won't be running off to volleyball practice at nine in the morning come the end of August. Volleyball has been a huge part of my life for the past four years, and now to help create a bond for squads so that they can come seniors can definitely say this has been their most enjoyable season of all!"

FALL CHEERLEADING

By Amanda Majewski

Jonathan Dayton's Lady Dawgs have a long outstanding tradition of revving up every fan. This season was no exception. With stands filled with proud fans, these cheerleaders couldn't help but be riled up for the fall football season.

Under the encouraging guidance of Senior Captains Caitlyn Quagliato and Lisa Mylanarski, our girls united once again to bring the spirit to Dayton and to gain something from the experience along the way. "Cheering has been a great way to get to know people," says junior cheerleader Heather Kerr. "I've learned so much more about teamwork and problem solving."

This season the girls helped to rally fans as Dayton Football won its first game of the season. They also added spirit and pep to the first pep rally with new cheers and choreography helping to show this year's freshmen how Dayton prides itself on spirit and unity.

DAYTON FOOTBALL

By Adam Frank &
Benjamin Zweiman

In its second year as a varsity program, the Jonathan Dayton Football team took a big step in the right direction. Under the direction of Coach Joe George for the second year, the team matured greatly and bonded together. According to senior Matt DiProfio, "This year we had a lot better idea about what we were going up against and to prepare better to win." Well all this extra knowledge and effort paid off when the team won its first game since by defeating Manville 22-20. After the game, all the players, especially Matt DiProfio, felt great after putting all time in from all of the two-a-days and the 5:30 morning runs at camp. The win was also credited to great leaders demonstrated by many of the players. Captain Rob Yannazone and Alex Silverman did a great job leading the offense, while Matt Loffa and Matt DiProfio steered the defense.

The rest of their season could have gone better, and the team's 0-5 record is a little deceiving. They played close games against Roselle Park and Harrison and it clearly looks like the team is improving with each game. A good thing about this season is that the defense held Highland Park running back, one of the best in the state to his lowest amount of rushing yards of the season. It is no surprise that this accomplishment came just one week before the team's first victory. Another shining note about this team is that they are a young team. Next season they will have their quarterbacks, running back, and several offensive linemen returning. This allows for team chemistry to be formed between the players and hopefully lead to more wins. The seniors believe that they are leaving this team with something to build on, it may not be a lot but every house starts from the foundation up. With the Junior Varsity team winning many games, and the varsity team returning most of its starters, I think we will see many more victories next season.

BOYS SOCCER

By Benjamin Mitchell Zweiman

After the success of their 2006 season, the Boys Soccer team has performed to similar standards so far in 2007. The team took a obvious blow, losing star goalie David Sauerhoff and seniors Adam Moss, Mike Dubiel, and Danny Shabat. "Last year's senior were irreplaceable," says forward Zach Floyd. "This year's team uses different tactics. We are a more cohesive unit, we aren't just a bunch of superstars."

When asked what the team's key to success was, Alex Neubauer simply replied, "Score more goals than the other team. It's that simple."

The dawgs have been playing through adversity, not having an overpowering offense or a stone defense. The team plays "two-way soccer" being solid on both sides of the ball; however, the team didn't compete in the county tournament due to lack of games. So far they have played well in the state tournament defeating North Arlington 3-0.

A few memorable moments were when they caught fire with a shut out victory over David Brearley 2-0 and had another key win over Roselle Park, sparking a 13 game winning streak. Boys soccer finished the season with a record of 16-4.

The highlight of the season is summed up with Coach Fabiano's 100th win with JDHS. Fab's has been through a lot during his long career at Dayton, and the soccer season has always been one to look forward to within the school. Fabiano strives to keep the program going and has been looking to the future by developing a lot of young talent. He has taken many freshmen up onto the varsity team hoping that their experience now will lead to success in the future.

Girls Soccer

By Nicole Stalls

Once again the Dayton girls soccer team came together to complete a successful and memorable season. The team captains included junior Casey Kennedy, junior Katie Imbriano, and sophomore Sami Cariani.

Although there were no seniors on the team this year, the underclassmen really showed their strength. With a season of 5 wins and 12 losses, the girls always made sure they had fun on the field.

Good chemistry between the girls has shown in their performance. "We all get along very well and work as team, which equals more wins," says captain Casey Kennedy. Coach Lynch is always looking for ways to better suit the abilities of the team. Adding more defense this year gave the girls a better chance of winning. The girls are looking forward to playing together next year.

Gymnastics

By Jennifer Seale

The Dayton-Brearley Gymnastic team consisted of 7 girls who all worked hard and strived for excellence. The team was lead by junior Captain Stephanie Porquin (Dayton) and Captain Cora Ann Licwinko (Brearley). The remainder of the team was made up of Dayton girls including Erika Seale, Aliza Stone, Dana Strober, and Samantha Weinbaum and Brearley member Angela Guarino.

This year's team may not have won all of their competitions, but all of the gymnasts gave it their all for the entire season. They stuck with it through countless practices, sores, blisters, and rips. The Dayton-Brearley gymnasts all supported each other and never let each other down. When asked about how the team interacted, freshman Erika Seale said, "The team was always there for each other and we always cheered each other on at the meets. We always supported each other in everything we did." This year's team had a close bond that is sure to continue on into next season.

Girls Tennis

By Jeanine Costa

Drawn to the team out of passion and fondness for the sport, Dayton's 2007- 2008 Girls Varsity Tennis team consists of ten players: six seniors, two juniors, one sophomore and one freshman. However, many of their tennis careers did not begin in high school. Some of these talented ladies have been playing since they were little.

Junior Caroline Egnatuk stated, "I've been playing tennis since I was seven years old. Its so much fun and its a way to relax after school."

From winning singles matches to losing a couple of doubles matches, one thing remains consistent, the experience the team feels while playing. Simply being on the court gives these girls adrenaline rushes that pushes them harder to perform even better.

Dull moments on the tennis team were considered scarce due to the fun times and competitive matches. The most exciting match seemed to be against Verona High. "Although we lost, we played great. Also, my opponent was seven feet tall, but I think I held my ground pretty well. So thats an achievement I will never forget," explains senior Carly Wolkoff.

When discussing her acheivements this season, Dana Feldman, a junior, replied, "I've learned a lot about patience and how to act on the court. I've learned a ton about team work as well."

CROSS COUNTRY

By Lucas Biebelberg

Coming off a promising 2006 season, the Jonathan Dayton Cross-Country team expected great things. Entering the 2007 season, the boys team looked strong and poised for a solid season, while the girls looked to continue their success. Captain David Steinman and returning seniors Joey Pulice, Lucas Biebelberg, Peter Sandler, Andrew Agranovich and Dan Aron helped anchor the boys while returning Captain Melissa Rodriguez led the girls. While other sports such as Soccer and Tennis tend to rule the fall, Cross Country should no longer be overlooked.

Throughout the course of the season, the team would take part in practices that would range from 30 minutes of hard running to 70 minute long runs. No matter what the practice consisted of, coaches Mr. Campbell and Miss Zika could always expect great things from team leader David Steinman. "He always pushes himself and his teammates to get better," stated Sophomore Tommy Clark. Steinman, Biebelberg, Sandler, and Aron have represented the team for four years, helping it acquire more talent.

Key additions to the team this year came when the Kirk brothers, Junior Billy and Freshman Kevin, joined the team. While the departing Seniors will leave a gap in the team hard to fill, the team is loaded with young talent composed of Elliot Karp, Jason Condon, Jordan Gelband, and Billy and Kevin Kirk.

For girls, the spark came from Freshman Rachel Murray when she posted outstanding times at the biggest meets of the year.

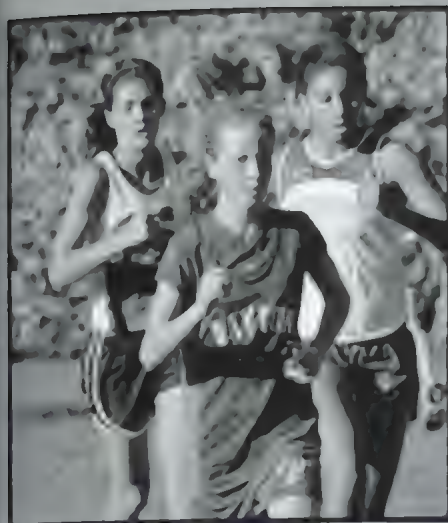

In addition to working up a good sweat, the Cross Country team can usually be found playing a highly competitive game of Ultimate Frisbee after practice on Fridays, or just laughing and having a good time while running. "David, Lucas, and Joey always made us laugh and made the team fun, and I'm going to miss them all when the year is over," stated Freshman Darren Farbstein. Junior Melissa Rodriguez will once again lead the girls next season, but it is up to one of the boys on the team to step up and show leadership skills that Steinman has honed for several years.

The 2008 season should be a breakout year for the Dawgs as 6 of the top 10 runners will be returning for the boys, and all runners for the girls will be back for another go-around. It is up to the young team to determine their future fate.

SWIMMING

A swimmer's character is molded not only through the race, but through values of cooperation, teamwork, sportsmanship, and competition. Captains Jennifer Seale and Daniel Aron, both from Dayton, had extremely high expectations for the team this year with regard to these values. With Coach Kristen Mellage, German teacher, returning from Union High School along with Coach Marisa Fotch, Italian teacher from Brearley, the team was sure to have a successful season.

This year the Dayton-Brearley team had an almost even split of 14 from Dayton and 16 from Brearley who got along extraordinarily. Dayton Senior Jen Seale stated, though our record may not have as good as previous years, [we were] extremely glad that the team [as a whole] had such a close knit bond.

At the end of the season, the team recalled facing Linden and mixing all their races just for the fun of it, even for the sake of winning memories with the departing seniors. These memories will be cherished by all.

School spirit was at an all time high year, and of course, the cheerleaders were right behind it. Led by Captains Erin Cunningham, Caitlin Quagliato, and Aaron Weinbaum, the Jonathan Day cheerleaders took school spirit to a whole new level. From mastering difficult stunts to creating new cheers and unique half routines, the cheerleading squad added excitement to both the girls' and boys' basketball teams. Although comprised of a young squad, the squad spent endless hours of dedication and hard work to ensure their performances were nothing short of perfect.

Boys Basketball

By Lucas Biebelberg

Coming off an unsuccessful 2006-2007 season, the Boys' Basketball team looked to avenge an inauspicious year. With long time three-sport athlete David Steinman anchoring the team, the boys looked promising going into the 2007-2008 season.

The Dawgs started off strong, beating Newark Central with a buzzer-beater. They then defeated Oratory Prep by a landslide, before losing their first game to Newark Technology. From there, the boys took off. Although Dayton had some key losses this season, they evened them out with some key wins. They split their season series with Newark Technology, New Providence, and Newark Central. They also took home the championship in the Pepe/Levee tournament, then defeated A.L. Johnson, Roselle Park, and South Amboy.

To go along with Dayton's state tournament birth, they also accomplished much more. Four year varsity starter David Steinman scored his 1,000th point this season by scoring twenty-three points against Newark Central. There was some doubt in the minds of people as to whether David could score twenty-three points in one game and break his 1,000th point at home, but David was able to prove those who doubted him wrong.

Also, new to the basketball program this year was the fan section known as the "Bulldog Bangers." The Bangers, composed of over twenty super-fans, attended every home game and made the gym a tough place to play in. "It makes a big difference when we're in a close game and we look into the stands and see everyone on their feet," claimed Joey Pulice. The "Bangers" are beloved by all members of the school and will hopefully be continued next year.

The team was well over .500 this year, but the question still stands: can they repeat their success next year? Four of the five starters will graduate leaving Zach Floyd and Rondre Kelly to take leadership roles next year. Only time will tell whether or not Coach Martin can continue his winning ways.

The Lady Bulldogs were out to play hard this season, and that's just what they did. With their plethora of wins and Jacqueline's 1500 points, the team closed the season with an impressive record, despite the fact that there wasn't a single senior on the team.

This senior-less team, led by Captains Casey Kennedy and Jacqueline Kuczynski, shows that age is just a number and it's skill that really matters. "It's good that we don't have any seniors on the team because we're one big family and we know exactly what our team is going to be like next year," says team Co-captain Casey Kennedy.

The girls hope to continue to build upon their bond with one another next season and anticipate the day when Jacqueline Kuczynski scores her 2000 points, an achievement that has never been met by any person at Dayton.

Winter Track

By Melissa Bace

Joining a sport is a great opportunity for students to get to know other students they wouldn't normally interact with and build long-lasting friendships through teamwork and a common goal of reaching for the gold. Winter Track is one of these sports. Every member of Dayton's Winter Track team is extremely dedicated, willing to put in long practices with the hopes of striving to be best.

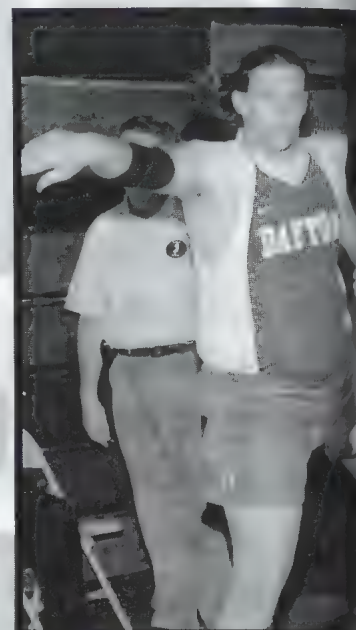

Aside from building friendships while striving to be the best, senior Radhee Sheth, who absolutely loves the sport, claims, "It's a great way to get in shape too. I couldn't imagine not doing it."

This year's track team did exceptional well, making it to States. With the guidance of Coaches Zika, Kozub and Cozza, freshman Rachel Murry was able to be conditioned enough to earn 5th place in the One-Mile and the Two-Mile. In addition, junior Pete Mongiello made First Team All Conference in the shotput category, while senior track star Melissa Itidare not only earned 1st place in the Fifty-Five High Hurdles, but also qualified for States. "I'm happy my hard work paid off, enabling me for States," claimed Itidiare who was elated at her accomplishment and all the recognition she received.

This year's track team really proved that hard work truly does pay off. Next year's team has big shoes to fill.

ICE HOCKEY

By Benjamin
Mitchell Zweiman

For the past few years, Dayton Hockey has been one of the anticipated sport this wonderful institution has to offer. Although the program had experienced success in past seasons, the 07-08 season was moderately successful, but more importantly served as a learning experience for the newer players.

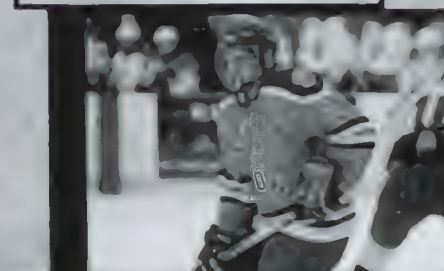

With only four seniors on the varsity roster, the team is building youthful talent for the upcoming seasons. Junior Forward Justin M. provided a boost for the offense over the past two years playing varsity. "I've always been looking ahead, trying to work on my game so that I can help the team as much as possible in tight games," Justin commented.

Model and fellow juniors Chris Neville, Evan Rodrigues, and Diament should be able to lead the dawgs back to their winning ways.

Due to the placing in last year's conference, the team was forced to move up and play tougher competitors which played a role in their wins and losses this season. The dawgs played competitive teams such as Watchung Hills and Hunterdon Central the full three periods, losing to WH's in the last 4 minutes (4-1) and tying HC (1-1).

Despite their losses, there were many bright spots in a cloudy season for the dawgs. Senior Vincent Inneo, a varsity asset since he was a freshman, was within range of scoring 100 points for his Dayton career, a huge milestone for the senior captain. When asked how he would reach the possible milestone point Inneo responded, "I'm not really thinking about reaching the 100 mark. It's a long shot. I'm focusing more on finishing the season strong."

Vinny finished the season with 98 points, two short of the milestone but a major accomplishment nonetheless. Who knows, perhaps after reviewing the points, it is possible that mistakes were made and correcting those mistakes could favor Inneo pushing him to the 100 mark. If so, we'll be sure to see Vincent Inneo's name up on the board with the rest of Dayton's record breaking athletes.

WRESTLING

By Matt Butler

With yet another successful season, the Jonathan Dayton-David Brearley wrestling team finished with a record of 21-4 earning them fourth in the state. Faced with yet another tough schedule, the Brearley Bears managed to persevere victoriously in many key match ups, including wins over long time rivals Roselle Park and South Plainfield. Senior wrestler Matt Loffa stated, "Whenever we go into matches like those, the intensity is overwhelming and it creates a 'must win' atmosphere."

Other important wins came against Kittatiny High School, who were the reigning Group One champions, and Camden Catholic, who suffered a crucial loss at the hands of the Bears by 21 points. From there, the Bears entered the state tournament where expectations were running high. "When you wrestle for Kenilworth you are expected to make a run in states," exclaims Matt Loffa.

Their next challenge was Delsea High School who were ranked third in the state. After beating them, the Bears advanced to the state finals where they would battle Long Branch High School. After a tough match, the Bears found themselves down, but managed to finish second in the tournament. Overall the Dayton-Brearly wrestling team had a stellar season, winning a state championship for Group Two North.

GOLF

After another stellar season, the 2007- 2008 Jonathan Dayton High School Golf Team had big shoes to fill after last year's successful run. With the return of Coach Steinginga and almost every player, the Dawgs felt they could be equally successful this season. Senior Amateo Bido described the team as "solid with tons of experience" and being that the team didn't lose many seniors last year, this year's team was just as Bido had described. He couldn't have been more right judging by the team's determination to pull out the close wins.

Faced with yet another grueling schedule, the senior leadership, along with consistent play, is what the Dawgs counted on most. County rivals David Brearley and the Oratory Rams provided a tough challenge, as they have been known to do. "Whenever we are matched up against them, you can count on it being close," claims senior Joey Pulice.

Overall, the Dawgs had a great season and seem to be setting the standard for all Dayton sports teams. Although the seniors will be missed, the team being composed of mostly underclassmen, looks promising for years to come.

Spring Track

By Lucas Biebelberg

Out of all the clubs and athletics that Jonathan Dayton offers, Spring Track seems to have the largest enrollment, composed of over 30 boys and girls. With events such as the 100 meter dash, the 200 meter dash, half mile run, mile run, and other types of running, there's a wide variety to interest any participant.

Aside from running, students can participate in other track and field events such as shot put, high jump, javelin throw, and pole vault. While other sports require one to compete for the state tournament as a team, track enables each individual to qualify for each event. With big meets against New Providence, David Brearley, Governor Livingston, and Millburn, track was very interesting to follow this past season.

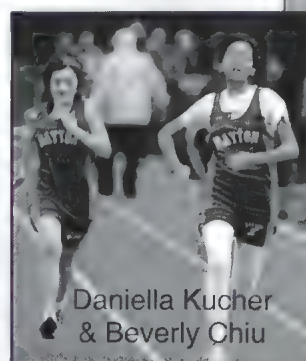

Unlike other sports where the rebuilding process is a factor, the track team is so large that the rebuilding process isn't as difficult to go through as it is in many other sports.

BASEBALL

After a long rest, the Jonathan Dayton Baseball Team was ready to take the field. Under new coach, Mike Passe, the team responded favorably having yet another good season. His motto of hard work and practicing with a purpose really helped to shape the team and help them gain a new identity. Senior ace Joel Loeshelle described the coaching change as "a breath of fresh air". He claims, "Coach Passe knows a lot and we, as a team, have learned much from him."

As for the season, the Dawgs were faced with a yet another rigorous schedule. However, being primarily a senior lead team, experience was at a premium. This leadership would prove most evident in their games with conference rivals Brearley, Governor Livingston, and Cranford. To go along with leadership, the Dawgs had clutch pitching. Joel Loeshelle, David Steinman, and Vinny Inneo provided the key pitching that kept the Dawgs in every game.

Although the departing seniors will be missed, the underclassmen seem ready for the challenge. "They are prepared and have the experience needed, so hopefully they continue where we left off," claims senior Ben Zweiman. With the 2009 season rapidly approaching, one can only hope that these underclassmen can follow in this year's footsteps.

SOFTBALL

By Benjamin Mitchell Zweiman

Dayton Softball started another optimistic season under new Varsity Coach Halpern, along with veteran Junior Varsity Coach Saladino. With the departure of many seniors last year, this year's team had a rather young roster filled with up and coming talent.

The youth of the squad adds hope for the '09 and '10 seasons. With sophomore captains, Ali Policastro and Casey Friedman, the team was determined to squeeze out a few victories throughout the season. With ace pitcher freshman Gabby DeFronzo, the girls were looking at a strong future for the pitching staff that was in need of a replacement after last year's departure of Alyssa Karl.

Junior Varsity Coach Saladino has been working the girls hard in the off-season to develop them for the season and for upcoming years. With the departure of only one senior this year, Jen Seale, the future of the softball program will hopefully remain strong for future years.

Boys Tennis

Article by Robert Krebsner

Layout by Jeanine Costa

The Dayton Boys Tennis Team was one of the best in the county, winning the New Jersey Group 1 State Championship in the Spring of 2007. Once again in 2008, with talent, competition, and aspirations drastically increased, the team looked to repeat what they had accomplished last year.

Led by Captains Mario Grant, Robert Krebsner, and Jordan Gelband, the Bulldogs anticipated an exciting year. The team had remained the same since last year, making another state victory possible for this season; however, they knew it would not come easily. With arch rivals New Providence being moved down to the Group 1 level, the Pioneers looked to steal what could have been easy competition, but the Bulldogs put up a fight.

Fear, however, is something the team needed to move past as they focused on greater heights. The Tournament of Champions, for instance, was one area where the team looked to improve upon as they were taken out early by other state winners last season. With this and other goals such as having a 70% winning record, placing 2nd in Counties, and defeating New Providence not once, but twice, the bar was certainly raised. These goals, set by Coach Keele and the team, kept the players motivated.

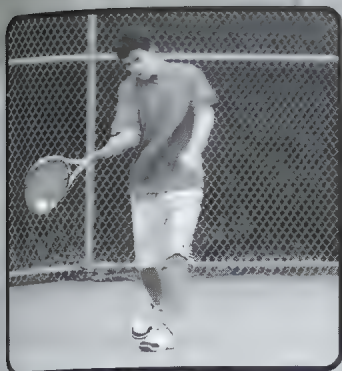

The excitement, letdowns, and achievements crossed the minds of the players as they grew one year stronger, smarter, and felt they were better prepared to make this season even more memorable than last.

KING OF HEARTS

By Kylie Karp

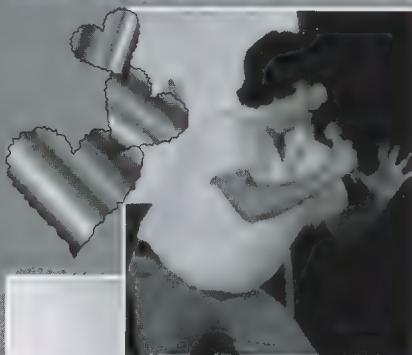

King of Hearts 2008 can be summed up in three words: pretty darn easy. Although preparation was very long and tedious, everything came together to put on an awesome show. Our eight contestants partook in a casual wear competition, talent, formal wear, and everyone's favorite, the swimsuit competition. These boys proved that the sky's the limit when it comes to creating an attention grabbing show. We witnessed everything from a hilarious impersonation of Mr. Kozub, to learning how to perfect an essay... well, kind of. There's no question that next year's show will be hard to top.

Snowball

By Kylie Karp

The Jonathan Dayton students constantly show the need for some excitement around here. One school dance in the fall just isn't enough to satisfy their dancing feet, which is why this year's 2nd annual semi-formal Snowball was the perfect solution.

Who doesn't love a good excuse to get all dolled up and spend a night dancing with friends? A new DJ got to show off his skills for the night, making it impossible to want to leave the dance floor.

Another great bonus to the winter Snowball was a catered dinner, courtesy of Cioffi's. Anything from chicken wings to pasta was served. Oh, and let's not forget that chocolate fountain that everyone couldn't help but crowd around!

Let's just say that this year's Snowball was yet another Student Council hosted event that was more than successful.

WHAT IS URINETOWN?

With a tough act to follow, Ms. Madison and Mr. Slate's cast of 23 took to the stage in what could only be described as a hilariously unexpected performance of Urinetown. Yes, URINETOWN: a show about pee. The show, complete with Broadway spoofs, kick lines and crazy antics, was a success hands down. "Red Bull, edamame, tums and lots and lots of jokes about urination and defecation... yes it was a good time," says Musical Director Ashley Madison who asked to reflect on her experience with the cast.

For the cast, it certainly was a memorable show. Friendships were formed as practices ran late and jokes ran wild. Seniors Roxanne, Amanda, and Scott all left the stage with a feeling of accomplishment, having a combined participation in at least a 25 performances on Dayton stage over the course of their high school careers. This was... after years of after school time spent working on the drama and musicals, this was the bitter end for seniors Roxanne Tourkay, Amanda Majewski and Scott Goldfarb.

DON'T BE THE BUNNY!

The Dayton Bonfire

By Roxanne Tourkay

The Dayton Bonfire is a night meant for all of Dayton to show their spirit, snuggle up by a warm fire while sipping on hot chocolate and nibbling on hot dogs. The bonfire was also a spirited way to pep up the student for the sports season while welcoming in the new school year. Although slightly delayed due to the crazy New Jersey weather, this bonfire was great success.

BULLDOG BANGERS...O.M.G.

By BEN ZWEIMAN AND LUCAS BIEBELBERG

The "Bulldog Bangers", Jonathan Dayton's very own student sport cheering section, was started by four brave individuals primarily for the 07-08 boys basketball season. Lucas Biebelberg, Alex Neubauer, Matthew Butler, and Matt Schweikert devised the brilliant idea of bringing back the school spirit that had been absent for the last few years.

Composed of Dayton students ranging from ages 14-18, the Bangers, starting out with four members and growing to 25 to 30 members, modeled themselves after Duke University's student section, the Cameron Crazies. The main purpose of this spirited group was to attend every home boys basketball games, and a few away games, with the intent of supporting our team while disrupting the opposing team in the process. Providing Dayton with the support they needed, the Bangers aided the Dawgs in finishing with a 10-2 at home season. With featured cheers such as "Winning Team-Losing Team", "OoOoOoOoOoOo," and "K-Swiss!", the Bangers were respectful, while providing humor to the stands.

It is with great aspirations that the Bulldog Banger tradition be continued for the 08-09 season.

Burger Night @ Bennigans

By Roxanne Tourkay

This year, the 2008 Yearbook Staff came up with some pretty clever ways to raise money for this very yearbook. Seniors Lucas Biebelberg and Matt Butler came up with the great idea of having a special night at Bennigans where 10% of the profits went to Jonathan Dayton High School's Class of 2008 Yearbook.

"Due to the unfortunate decrease in elective enrollment, this year's yearbook staff was unable to raise the funds that were raised in previous years to help finance the yearbook, so this was one of the staff's creative ways to bring in revenue," claims Mrs. Chomko.

"The turn out was greater than expected," claims Yearbook Advisor Mrs. Chomko. And aside from that, the discounted burgers were juicy and delicious.

This year's drama production of The Laramie Project, performed on November 16, 2007 and November 17, 2007, went above and beyond the expectations of a high school production. Becoming more than just a show, The Laramie Project was more of a movement among students and the community. The Laramie Project is the tear jerking true story of the young college student Matthew Shepard's tragic loss to the ignorance and hate society has bred. Cast members brought to life the story of his murder, funeral and the trial of the accused, as well as artfully displaying the contrasting views of the community.

Director Karyn Chomko, along with Anthony DeNicolo, orchestrated 24 students over just 6 weeks of after school practices to put on what has been an incredibly touching experience for viewers and cast members alike. Chomko has been quoted as saying, "This is the reason I became a teacher," as she tearfully addressed the cast backstage.

"It has been an honor and a privilege to be a part of this experience. I can only hope that our hard work and dedication to the message this show teaches has impacted someone as much as it has impacted me," says cast member Roxanne Tourkay.

Dear Scott,

Congratulations!!!
We are so happy
and proud you have reached this milestone in your life.

You have grown into a handsome, intelligent, kind, and caring person. We are fortunate to have a wonderful son like you.

We wish you a lifetime of love, luck, health, and happiness. Always remember to "follow your dreams and reach for the stars." Nothing is impossible.

Soon you will be following Stacy and Steven's footsteps into college. Always do your best, have fun, be safe, and remember how much we love you.

Love always,
Mom and Dad

P.S. After 22 years of "back to school" nights. We are finally done!!!!

Dear Scott,

Congratulations! We are so proud of you.
We wish you the best of luck in the years to come and hope all of your dreams come true. The sky is the limit - just remember to always believe in yourself and follow your heart. We love you very, very, very much and just know that we are always right behind you.

Caitlin Nicole

You, my brown eyed girl, do you remember when?
We used to sing...

When I was 10 I had to sing I love you to a lady

18 years have come & gone
For momma they flew by

You are my Sunshine
my only Sunshine

We're jumpin' on the bed...
We're jumpin' on the bed...
Mommy says no
Aunt Pattie says YES!

Baby don't forget,
before you hit the highway
you better stop for gas
There's a fifty in the ashtray in case you run short on cash
Here's a nap and here's a tibble
If you ever lose your way
Just one more thing before you leave
Don't forget to remember me...

I love you,
you love me

I know how about Daddy
thru the snow!

Operator, can you help me
make this call?

I will always love you

I gotta' taken,
I gotta'

If it's cold outside,
show the world
the warmth of your smile,

You never need to carry more than you can hold

You'll never know dear,
how much I love you Please don't take my sunshine away.

When life's a drag,
I dance

And we'll love
you, you, you

And make sure that you tell
Daddy,
I'm still
his little girl

I pray you'll be my eyes
And watch her where she goes
And help her to be wise
Help me to let go

We love you! Mom, Dad, Jenn, Bubbs & Cali

What a joy it has been having you as a daughter. We are so proud of our baby girl.

Love,
Mom & Dad

Dear Billy the Blue Ranger, aka Donatello, aka Enron, aka Earvin "Magic" Johnson,

The day, sir? Why today it's Christmas Day. We have a word of advice for you. Always scan a room before you start talking about someone loudly; you never know who you'll run into, especially at Barnes & Noble. He had good ears. We have bad ears, especially on a plane. We will obsessively carry your picture in a locket, and never give it up. Steaky wakes and eggy wegs for all, little Alex. Hang the DJ, hand the DJ, hang the DJ and follow the leader, leader, leader. And remember, whatever you do, don't sell that cow.

Love, LoxRdastreet & Missy "Misdemeanor" Michellot

P.S. Never leave your lawnmower unattended or people will try and steal it. then they will steal you and Pete will watch wearing big glasses and grinning manically from the north side window.

"Her belief in me helped strengthen my confidence and helped me to grow, and she inspired me to reach and try harder, yet stay balanced. Who I am today and all that I will become, will always be partly because of the ongoing support and encouragement from my high school guidance counselor and friend, Mrs. Alice Lightdale. I feel a debt of gratitude to her and I will never ever forget her."

*Carissa Clark,
Class of 2008*

"Alice was a wonderful friend and colleague. Now, everyone who knew Alice could attest to the fact that she liked to talk. She even talked to Joe Cozza through the wall, and to her file cabinet. But what only her family, her students, their parents and her friends know is that she was a wonderful listener. She would make time for anyone who had a question or a problem, sometimes connecting so tightly with them that changes in counselor assignment had to occur."

Department*

In Loving Memory of Alice Lightdale

*"Counselor, colleague, and friend,
Mrs. Alice Lightdale
left a legacy of professionalism at Jonathan Dayton that will continue in the hearts of all the people with whom she worked. We are saddened by her loss, but are also blessed with many wonderful memories."*

COLOPHON 2008

We, the Editors of the 2008 yearbook, would like to extend a heartfelt thank you to all of those who participated in the production of this yearbook and to our advisor, Mrs. Karyn Chomko, who spent countless hours dedicated to this book of memories. Without everyone's help, the yearbook would not be the completed product it is today.

From our first walk down our Freshman hallway to our final walk at graduation, we hope this yearbook captures every defining moment of our high school lives. We hope this yearbook will preserve the laughter, friendships, and all the other components of our memorable four years at Jonathan Dayton.

Congratulations to the Class of 2008 and good luck!

- Lucas Biebelberg & Erin Cunningham
